opportunities to young people who might have an interest in marketing and business, but who might not want, or be able, to go on to university.

There are no specific qualifications or experience needed, we're interested in someone's attitude, enthusiasm and their ability to get stuck in. It's a paid position and, as we're a living wage employer, it will be a proper starting salary. But, depending on where you are based, it could involve a move to Edinburgh as it will be full time, Monday to Friday.

Anyone interested should email jobsedin@emperor.works with 300 words on why they'd be perfect for the role (we don't want CV's so it can be as blind a process as possible). We'll be interviewing in June and can let people know by July if they are successful. I'm happy to answer any questions anyone might have - and the full job info can be found here emperor.works/careers/account-executive-Edinburgh/
